The Graduate Certificate of Telehealth is a new course developed in partnership with Turning Point to meet the growing demand for the delivery of healthcare beyond traditional face-to-face services.

You will learn from local and international experts about the practical, legal, ethical and policy-related requirements of working at a distance and virtually with patients and clients.

This online course is for anyone working in a behaviour change or mental health setting, including allied health practitioners, mental health clinicians, community health providers, telephone and online counsellors, practice managers, and policymakers. The Graduate Certificate in Telehealth provides the framework for developing and maintaining a safe and effective virtual practice.

COURSE STRUCTURE

The Graduate Certificate of Telehealth course consists of 4 units:

- Fundamentals of telehealth A
- Fundamentals of telehealth B
- Delivering person-centred telecare
- Special issues in telehealth

In the Graduate Certificate of Telehealth, you will:

- Understand the fundamentals of providing telehealth services, including the latest evidence for their effectiveness, management principles, and technology considerations.
- Learn the practical skills to provide person-centred telecare and engage with patients/clients using distant and virtual technologies.
- Gain the knowledge to develop, maintain, and sustain a telehealth-based practice, including legal, regulatory, and ethical considerations and understand the barriers or limitations to telehealth practice.
- Explore the future of telehealth and worldwide initiatives in the field.
